Strategic Initiatives and Process for Public Participation

Public participation

Gifford provides ample opportunities for the public to provide both input and actively participate in medical center activities. The Community Health Needs Assessment process, patient satisfaction surveys, community meetings, and one-on-one comments to hospital staff members, board members, ambassadors and volunteers help direct strategic planning and operational decisions. Gifford’s volunteer board members represent a variety of communities served by the medical center. Board members actively participate in and oversee the hospital’s yearly operational and longer-term capital and strategic planning decisions. In addition, community members serve on hospital board committees, and Gifford’s Ambassadors are kept apprised of the organization’s activities at Gifford’s Annual Meeting and through email newsletters.

Gifford offers substantial volunteer opportunities. Volunteers generously give of their time providing administrative support and serve as volunteer chaplains visiting patients at their bedsides. Volunteers do activities with participants at the Adult Day Program and Menig Nursing Home residents. Other members knit hats for babies born in Gifford’s Birthing Center and make quilts for newborns, nursing home residents, cancer patients, and end-of-life patients.

Gifford partners with community and state organizations and businesses to provide and receive services surrounding community health issues and initiatives. Gifford works diligently to keep the community apprised of hospital happenings, news, services, and free educational opportunities. Hospital happenings are shared through traditional and social media, publications and the hospital’s website, www.giffordhealthcare.org. The hospital also opens its conference rooms for public meetings and hosts its own events, including support groups, classes, and clinics.

Strategic initiatives

Gifford engages in extensive strategic planning to identify and implement initiatives the organization wants to achieve over the coming years. Hospital leadership, including the volunteer board, monitors the progress of these initiatives to ensure success. Typically, this process is renewed every three years and considers Gifford’s mission, core values, and the needs of the community and community partners. Hospital and community leaders are currently finalizing the 2022 plan. The plan focuses on:

- People and Culture
- Population Health
- Infrastructure
- Governance
